Congress Upon the Status of Great Britain to Submit the Venezuelan Boundary Delegate to Arbitration as Demanded by This Country.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The following is a part of the message sent by President Cleveland to congress today:

"In my annual message addressed to congress on the 2d instant I called attention to the pending boundary controversy between Great Britain and the republic of Venezuela and pointed out the substance of the representation made by this government to her Britannic majesty's government, suggesting reasons why such dispute should be submitted to arbitration for settlement, and inquiring whether it would be so submitted.

"The answer of the British government, which was then awaited, has since then been received, together with dispatch; to which it is a reply, it has to be appended. Each reply is embodied in two communications addressed by the British prime minister to Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British ambassador at his capital. It will be seen that one of these communications is devoted entirely to observations upon the Monroe doctrine, and claims that in the present instance a new and strange extension and development of this doctrine is intended upon by the United States, that reasons justifying an appeal to the doctrine announced by President Monroe are generally inapplicable to the state of things in which we live at the present day, and especially inapplicable to a controversy involving the boundary line between Great Britain and Venezuela.

"Without attempting extended arguments, in reply to these positions it may not be amiss to suggest that the doctrine upon which we stand is strong and sound, because its enforcement is important to our peace and safety as a nation and is essential to the integrity of our free institutions and tranquil maintenance of our distinctive form of government. It was intended to apply to every stage of our national life and cannot become obsolete with our republican era. If the balance of power is justly a cause for jealous anxiety among the governments of the Old World and a subject for our abatement, it is equally a cause for our vigilance and our determination to maintain the Monroe doctrine of vital importance to our people and government.

"Assuming, therefore, that we may properly insist upon this doctrine without regard to the matter of things in which we live, or changed conditions here or elsewhere, it is not apparent why the application may not be invoked in the present controversy. If a European power by an extension of its boundaries takes possession of the territory of one of our neighboring republics against its will and in degradation of its rights it is difficult to see why so that extent such European power does not thereby attempt to extend its system of government to that portion of the continent which is thus taken. This is the precise action which President Monroe declared to be 'dangerous to our peace and safety,' and can make no difference whether the European system is extended by an advance of frontier or otherwise.

"It is also suggested in the British reply that we should not seek to apply the Monroe doctrine to the pending dispute, because it does not embody any principle of international law, which is founded on the general consent of nations, and that 'no statesman, however eminent, and no nation, however powerful, are competent to insist that the principle of international law is a novel principle which was never recognized before and which has not since been accepted by the government of any other country.' Practically the principle of which we contend has been in existence in relation to the United States. It may not have been admitted in so many words to the code of international law, but ever since it is entailed on the rights belonging to it. If the infraction of the European system is deemed by some to be justly claim, it has its place in the code of international law as certainly and as surely as if it were specifically mentioned, and when the United States is a factor before the high tribunal that administers international law, the question is determined whether or not we present claims which the justice of that code of law can be to fight and void. The Monroe doctrine finds its recognition in those principles of international law which have been recognized by the world, and which have been protected and its just claims enforced."

Congressional Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—In the house yesterday a lively debate was had over a resolution of Delegate Flynn of Oklahoma, calling upon Secretary Smith for information why agents have not been appointed to all the lands of the Wichita Indians and open the remaining lands to settlement. He charged that "that some of Mr. Bullitt's tactics could reap a harvest, who were acting as counsel for some of the Indians."

The resolution was adopted.

In the senate two hours of the session was taken up in a speech of Senator Stewart in an attempt upon the "globe combination."

THE CAPITAL

KINDS & JOBS. Editors.

THURSDAY, DEC. 19, 1895.

CONGRESSMAN LITTLE, of Arkansas, has introduced a free silver bill. He proposes to push the fighting for the people's money.

SAVIER GOVERNOR was elected President of the American Federation of Labor over John McBride. This is a defeat to the socialists.

MRS. LEAKE is now an attorney of Judge Parker's court. She enjoys the distinction of being the first woman ever admitted to the bar in Arkansas.

The details of the massacre of the Christians in Armenia are horrible, and will result in rousing public sentiment to a pitch that the powers will be obliged to act.

HON. ALLEN G. THURMAN, "The noblest Roman of them all," died last Thursday evening at the age of 87. There is his biography, which is intended to write the history of the country for many years.

Delegato Flynn holds on his present course he will get an unenviable notoriety. He called up his resolution in regard to the Wichita lands, and made it the occasion of a bitter attack on Secretary Smith, and on the President.

This statement that non-citizens can live in the Territory without being subject to tax is not exactly in accord with facts. The CAPITAL asserts that the non-citizen government permits an arbitrary power in the hands of the Territory which they could have to pay in Arkansas or Texas, and that they get in return no benefit in government and no citizenship.

The President has transmitted to Congress Secretary Olney's note to Lord Salisbury on the Venezuelan boundary dispute, and his answers with a special message that insists on maintaining the Monroe Doctrine.

He recommends the appointment of a commission to inquire into the merits of the dispute. The message was received with applause, both in the Senate and House. The President heartily endorses the views of the President.

Mercy wonder has been expressed that England should have stood by the Turk for so many years, and that she should allow so many millions to be perpetrated against the Christians, while so zealously Christians herself. The explanation is that England has 57,000,000 Mohammedan subjects. If England were to take active measures against Turkey in favor of Christians, holy war would be declared, and the world would witness a revolution of these 57,000,000 Mohammedans, a number larger than the entire population of the British Isles. This is a factor that must always be considered in the Turkish problem.

This retirement of the greenback will free the government from the obligation to keep a gold reserve, as long there is a standing indebtedness for which it is responsible in any sense. The only way to keep out of trouble is the one used in private business. Do not try to carry a debt that can embarrass. Pay cash. If the President's theory that gold is the only money of redemption is true, the public may expect a fall of at least fifty per cent below present prices. It cannot be prevented because the amount of gold in circulation is not abundant to meet the demand. It is a question of exchange at present. The gold market is not a money market. It is a market for gold. The alternative is a currency based on debt that will periodically produce a panic.

The people here have always abused the M. & K. for not giving us a depot. After a while the depot came, and all were pleased. Then we began to abuse them for not giving us a side track, and platforms till we had abundant switching and transfer facilities. They have had to give us to do it, and have bought the dirt to make the fill. As soon as they secured it somebody jumped the land and fenced it up. Such conduct, of course, makes the railroad people more than a hundred men can help, and can help us more than any hundred men who will come here. Let us get their friendship.

DELEGATE FLYNN, of Oklahoma has introduced a townsite bill in the lower house of Congress to provide for townsites in the Chickasaw Nation, and it is intended to spread out and take in the live lands. It provides that the President shall appoint three commissioners, who shall be known as Townsite Commissioners, at a salary of $10 a day, for actual services. They are to make all contracts for surveying. Upon petition of twenty bona fide residents of a town having fifty or more inhabitants they shall cause a survey to be made, and shall approve the lots and plat. The lots shall be sold at the appraised value, and those having improvement on the lots shall have the first right to purchase for twelve months. All money received is to be paid into the treasury at St. Louis to the credit of the Choctaw and Chickasaw tribes.

ONCE more the rolling years have brought the nativity of Him who came to bless the world. The glad songs of those who have tasted His mercy will fill the earth, and help to fulfill the prophecy that "The earth shall be full of His knowledge and glory." His words resounded in a louder and gladder strain than ever before. The kingly, edged Him is increasing from year to year, and more and more is spreading reverently in almost every tongue, clime and tribe on the earth. The CAPITAL greets its readers, and hopes that every one may taste this pardoning love.

The Cherokee Advocate devoted nearly a column to the interest of the late Chairman Dawes, and through him to the members of the Commission. It calls them liars and men too full of prejudice to write a fair statement of affairs here. This course of that paper is followed by many Cherokees. It is a fact, like like. In his twenty years of service Mr. Dawes has saved to the Cherokees $18,000,000 that otherwise they would have lost. Almost the last thing that he did was to get the bill for the cutting out of the Strip bill of a clause providing that if they refused to accede to the plan of the bill, the Strip was to go to the government by eminent domain. In doing this, the service he was the unfailing friend of the Indian, and is so yet. The Advocate may deceive its readers into believing this stuff, but it cannot reach Congress with its Senator Dawes. The late Senator's reputation makes him proud against such attacks. The personal character and high standing of the Indian members place them above such slights. Such a course only injures the cause of the Advocate by the deaths have occurred during the present year from mine accidents.

ALLOTMENT CERTAIN.

The Change Considered Best for the Territory. WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—There seems more promise for actual Indian legislation in this Congress than for several previous ones. The bill, which is being the line of those Senators who are interested in such matters, and the committee appointed to consider the bill, has been reported.

Senator Jones of Arkansas, Chairman of the Committee on Indian Affairs, has introduced a bill for the allotment of the Five Civilized Tribes, have come to the conclusion that the best way to deal with the rights and inalienable hunting grounds of the Indian tribes was by the absolute refusal to look at the matter in a reasonable light. The bill is the result of the committee's inability of deciding what is best for themselves. As was stated in these dispatches, Senator Jones has passed through the Senate a few days ago, still extending the time set for the extension of the bill. The bill is a Cherokee country from January 1 until such time as Congress shall have acted upon the bill. The bill has been passed by the House today by a vote of 100 to 10. It is blocked by Representative Olney, who is opposed to its early adjournment.

Representative Little, of Arkansas, will not be troubled as to its passage. This is the work of the delegation of the President's theory that gold is the only money of redemption. It is true, the public may expect a fall of at least fifty per cent below present prices. It cannot be prevented because the amount of gold in circulation is not abundant to meet the demand. It is a question of exchange at present. The gold market is not a money market. It is a market for gold. The alternative is a currency based on debt that will periodically produce a panic.

Harshness Letter. The new school house, nearly erect, has been about 100 feet, and a superior vein of coal, three feet in thickness, has been reached.

The miner's meeting was held here Monday night, largely attended by all classes of people, and after much discussion, a resolution was passed, which was carried. Another meeting will be held, to discuss the matter of changing the aspect of affairs. Knowing ones boldly assert that the miners are not interested in such matters are agreed.

WHEN YOU PAY

YOUR MONEY for goods you want, something good and fresh. That we have the largest stock of canned goods in the Territory has long been an established fact. Now, we are getting in for the holiday trade the finest lot of candy and fancy cakes, mince meat, all the ingredients for fruit cakes, mince and fancy pickles, etc., ever seen in this country. We want the ladies to call.

THE DIFFERENCE. A MAN will come in and say, "well, you are fixin' up ain't you?" buy a cigar, go home, sit down, smoke and say nothing. That's all right as long as he buys his cigars at the Shapard Grocery Co.

WITH A WOMAN IT'S DIFFERENT. She'll talk. She spends her money carefully, sees all the pretty things and is so intelligent to tell her friends about it. That's why we want the ladies to call and see for themselves. Now, when a lady walks into a grocery store she wants to receive polite attention. She wants to find a complete stock, and everything she calls for, and that's what she'll find at the Shapard - Grocery - Co.
