

TRIALS OF THE TEACHERS

Those Employed in Interior Districts Have Some Experiences That Test Their Nerve.

No one will probably ever know just how much grit and courage the hundreds of young women who have been employed in the interior schools of the old Indian Territory district have displayed. Scores and scores of well bred and well educated girls are teaching in the rugged interior sections of the new state, where they are obliged to live in a house of two rooms occupied by a large family, half of whom are Indians and cannot understand English until the pluck girl teaches it to them.

For pure grit the girls who have come from Missouri and Kansas and those who have gone from the cities of the new state and taken positions at some of the government schools have given a striking example.

It has been the policy of the government to extend its schools into the backwoods sections as much as possible. This means that schools are sometimes 30 miles from a railroad and in a section which is practically undeveloped.

Down in the Chickasaw nation a girl was assigned a school to teach. The authorities had been petitioned to establish a school and the patrons had built a log school house. The petition showed that there were nearly 40 children within reach of the school house. The teacher arrived and began to look for a boarding house. She spent two days in the only house she could find where there was a table to board. There were two beds, but in the same room. The children were put on a pallet on the floor and the teacher given their bed. She remained one night and the next day she went word to the authorities that she would not teach the school.

In one place in the Creek nation a girl was assigned a school. When she arrived she found the only place she could board was in a dugout. The average salary received by these teachers is from $35 to $50 a month. They pay from three to four dollars a week for room and board. The hardships experienced by these teachers would appall anyone with less grit and never give up spirit. When they come to Oklahoma it is generally because they need the money, and when they come they usually are not prepared to go back. The result is they are determined to make a success of their work. They are paid every three months and they must teach that long before they get their first check. By the time the three months close they have usually adjusted themselves to conditions and they will not give up until the school term closes.

This is one of the inevitable results of the attempt to tame the wild portions of the new state. These wild conditions here alluded to are the exception in the new state and yet are frequent enough to be of more than passing interest. The efforts that are under way to carry the advantages of an education to the young people in the isolated portions of Oklahoma deserve great praise. Education will in a few short years do wonders for those people living in the wilder portions of old Indian Territory.

AFTER BOOK TRUST.

Oklahoma's Governor to Give Close Attention to School Question.

Guthrie, Nov. 29.—Governor Haskell will give close attention to the affairs of the school text book trust in Oklahoma. He has begun inquiries as to the nature of the manipulations of the book companies in Oklahoma, especially at Oklahoma legislatures. He is acquainted to a limited extent to what book companies have been doing in Indian Territory for a long time, especially in the days when the tribal schools were controlled by the tribal governments.

It is Governor Haskell's purpose to bar the way to the book trust in any attempt it may make to maintain itself further in Oklahoma. He expressed surprise lately at the extent of the organization of the book trust, even down to the school districts, and that so many persons, ostensibly disclaiming connection with the trust, should be in its employ. It is possible under the constitution for the state to publish its own school text books and supply them free to the school children of the state.

Governor Haskell is casting about for a plan whereby the chief school teachers and others, in the capacity of the book trust, may be required to give publicity to the fact or be punished for a misdemeanor. He believes that if the agents of the book trust were known that the trust would find it more difficult to hoodwink the public.

SHORT, TIMELY INTERVIEWS

The Financial Flurry Proved That the McAlester People Are Not of the Panicky Sort.

"The flurry in financial affairs has certainly proven that there are few panicky people in McAlester," remarked a gentleman today. "When the news came that the banks would change from the cash to the clearing house certificates, I paid special attention to the action of some folks whom I thought would rush for the banks and demand their money. I was very pleasantly surprised when I heard these people say that they were confident that the situation locally would be alright and that they did not wish their money. I have kept a close watch for men and women who would give signs of getting frightened, because I had an idea that such a thing would happen many times during the flurry. Well, I must say that up to the present time I have failed to find a single man or woman who has demanded from the local banks the full amount of their deposits. I think that this is ample proof that the citizenship of McAlester is composed of a pretty level headed set of people."

"I am in favor of the sale of the surface of the segregated coal lands to bonafide settlers at the earliest possible moment," said a business man Thursday. "But I certainly am not in favor of having the choice pieces of land jumped by land grabbers. There are men living in this city who have now placed small houses on lands, and are living upon them, who never dreamed of doing such a thing until they saw the chance of securing a good piece of land close to town, men who have lived in McAlester for many years, and who, if asked to live on these lands a few years ago, would have refused to do so. These men are now living on land close to town and have set up the cry, 'I am a settler.' The man who has lived on these lands for years and who has raised families on the land; the man who built his house on the segregated surface, when it took courage and fortitude to do so, is the one who should secure the choice pieces of land for a home. I have no sympathy with those who are now living on lands and trying to secure title under the guise of settlers. Such procedure shows a greediness and a grab-bag spirit that does not stand for good citizenship, and should not be tolerated."

"What will McAlester do next summer for amusement?" asked a gentleman today. "I ask this question in view of the fact that the county attorney has already refused to allow a Sunday football game. Next summer we hope to have a good base ball team in the new state league. I am afraid our boys are in vain without the Sunday games we cannot support a team. In the summer the various summer gardens will expect to open. Now there are hundreds of men who work hard every day in the week, except Sunday. These men cannot attend a game of ball or an amusement park on week days. They cannot leave their work. Sunday is their day off. Some of them go to church. Some who are enthusiastic over the great American game spend an afternoon at the ball park. Some attend the amusement parks. With the strict Sunday laws, these places will be closed. I have been asking myself this question. Will the men keep away from the ball park and other amusement places attend church?"

THE UNION THANKSGIVING

Large Attendance at the M. E. Church, South, With Fine Music and a Good Sermon.

The union Thanksgiving service at the M. E. church, south, Thursday morning was largely attended. The program as announced Wednesday was carried out. There were many special musical features, together with the reading of the Thanksgiving proclamation of the president and governor and a powerful sermon by Rev. Chancellor. Around the altar were banked great clusters of chrysanthemums. A number of large palms were also used in the floral decorations. The hymn, "Coronation," sung by the choir and congregation, opened the services. Then followed prayer by Rev. Fort Smith. The anthem, "Magnify His Name," was rendered beautifully by the choir. The president's Thanksgiving proclamation was then read by Rev. Christensen. Mrs. E. F. Hill rendered a beautiful vocal solo, "Fear Ye Not, O Israel," by Dudley Buck. The state Thanksgiving proclamation was then read by Rev. Cowden. The hymn, "America," was sung by the choir and congregation. W. C. Porter of Chicago, a young man of very fine voice, rendered a beautiful solo. Rev. F. I. Poage gave the scripture reading, Psalm 116, "I Love Jehovah Because He Heavens My Voice and Supplication."

"Slug Unto the Lord" was then rendered by the choir. Rev. Chancellor then gave his Thanksgiving sermon. It is seldom one hears a more helpful and uplifting sermon than the one delivered by Rev. Chancellor. His text was taken from Psalm 116, 12th verse, "What Shall I Render Unto the Lord For All His Benefits?" From this he drew a beautiful lesson on "A Grateful Heart." First he spoke upon the reflections of a grateful heart, and enumerated the temporal blessings, thankfulness for the life that God has given us; the many necessities given; the many beautiful associations of life and then the welfare of the nation. He said we should all have grateful hearts that our nation is at peace with the nations of the world.

In spiritual blessings we should have grateful hearts for the salvation given us, the loosening of the bonds by the Lord, the deliverance of mankind from evil. We should have grateful hearts for the Lord's help in times of trouble. He drew away the tears and sorrow in our afflictions. He helps our feet from falling and will make our death blessed. In speaking of the iniquity of a grateful heart, Rev. Chancellor said that when the question, "What Shall I Render Unto the Lord For All His Benefits?" was not asked as a question of ease. This was no little soul's inquiry. It was the inquiry of one who with all his heart wished to do service unto the Lord for the blessings bestowed upon him. He said that there was difficulty in knowing what to render unto the Lord. Our environments and state of being made this so. Our best gifts are insignificant. The Lord is so much above all and his blessings are so grand and good that all we can give is insignificant. The Lord alone can prompt the response. The value of the offerings to God are measured by the willingness of the heart. The widow's mite counted for more than all the gifts of the rich. The response of a grateful heart is made by giving our selves to God. By offering ourselves to do his work and spread the truth and light as best we may in our weak way. To pay our vows now in the Lord's house in the presence of his people. Give ourselves for any service and abide forever in the faith.

The offertory and charity offering followed, then the doxology and benediction by Rev. Goddard. The union Thanksgiving service will long be remembered by those who attended. Every one left feeling that they had many things to be thankful for. Many hearts were made lighter and the entire service was a blessed season. Rent that room through a News agent. Holdenville, Okla., Nov. 29.—Word was received here today that John Bruner, a negro who killed J. A. Redmond, a prosperous white farmer living seven miles east of this place on the afternoon of November 15, and who has since been hiding was arrested today at Broken Arrow, and will be taken to Muskogee for safe keeping. There was much bitter feeling between the blacks and whites in the settlement where the shooting occurred before the murder, and since their has been tension that trouble would start at any time. The negroes are very apprehensive and 26 officers thought it best not to bring the prisoner here at present.

NEGRO SLAYER CAPTURED. No Seat, No Fare. The supreme court of New Jersey has sustained the "No seat, no fare" ordinance passed by the street and water board of Jersey City at the instance of Mayor Fagan. The ordinance provides that all corporations operating the trolley cars from the Erie and Pennsylvania railroad terminals shall, between the hours of 5:30 and 7 p. m. run a sufficient number of cars to provide a seat for every passenger from whom a fare is demanded. It also provides that passengers shall not be kept waiting longer than five minutes for a car. A penalty of $50 was fixed for each and every violation of the ordinance.

ADDITION-HALEY.

The many friends of Mrs. Ida Haley and of Mr. Al Addison will be surprised to learn of their wedding, which occurred Thanksgiving eve in the parlors of the Rock Island hotel, where Mrs. Haley has been for the past year employed as clerk and head bookkeeper. She has gained many friends while in the employ of Joe Gleese. Mr. Al Addison is assistant superintendent of the Adamson Mining Co., located at Adamson, Okla., where he has many friends who will be very greatly surprised to learn of his marriage. The parties of the hotel were decorated with roses and carnations for the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Addison will be at home, after a short trip to the west, at Adamson, Okla.

WANTS A BATTLESHIP.

New State Thinks One Should Be the Oklahoma. Washington, Nov. 29.—Senators Owen and Gore of Oklahoma have served notice on the secretary of the navy that they want the next new battleship named "Oklahoma." Every state in the union, except Utah, now has a battleship or cruiser named after it. The administration will ask for four new battleships this year. If congress provides for them the secretary of the navy says one of them shall be named "Oklahoma." The two senators also took up with the war and navy department the question of Oklahoma's representation in the war school at Annapolis and West Point. The new state is entitled to seven places to each school immediately, one for each senator and congressman. Officials of the departments said they would investigate at once and notify the senators what could be done. Some question has arisen as to the law giving $5,000,000 in cash for its school fund. Government officials are inclined to believe that the law is so lame that the treasury would not be justified in turning over that vast sum without additional legislation. No effort is being made to repudiate the payment. It is just the question of procedure. Attorneys for the treasury department are investigating the law and will give the Oklahoma senators a reply in a few days. If the law is held sufficient the government of Oklahoma will make formal application for the money and it will be turned over. Senator Owen says the new constitution will enable the school fund commissioners to put the money in the banks and thus relieve the money stringency. Will give five per cent. of all its cash sales to the churches and affiliated organizations of McAlester and surrounding towns.

As a basis for the distribution I will give with each cash sale of 50 cents or over a coupon representing the amount of the purchase, which, when presented to me by the authorized agent of any church organization, wherever located in Oklahoma, on or after Christmas morning, I WILL REDEEM IN CASH TO THE AMOUNT OF FIVE PER CENT OF ITS SALES VALUE.

These coupons will be issued at the request of the customers only at the time of purchase and may be given by them to any church or church organization they may desire. The coupons will be worthless to anybody else.

The smaller churches, by organizing to secure these coupons from the unattached and non-members as well as from their own membership, can raise a considerable fund, and as a result of their labor, they will be enabled to make a more substantial contribution to their church than their congregations will make, who have twice or three times the membership, but who are not so systematically organized.

This gives you an opportunity to make a donation to your favorite church organization without expense to yourself.

WEDDINGS

JOHNSON-GRIFFITH. Joseph E. Johnson and Miss Ethel Griffith were married at All Saints Episcopal church Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock by Bishop Brook. The church was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and potted plants.

The wedding ceremonies were held under a big floral bridal veil. The beautiful ring ceremony was used. The church was filled with friends. Immediately after the wedding the party was driven to the Bach where the evening was very pleasantly spent.

At 10:55 Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left for Tusculum, Ala., the home of the groom where several days will be spent. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will take up their residence at the Griffith home. Dr. and Mrs. Griffith will spend the winter in New Mexico.

The groom is one of McAlester's most popular young business men. He is owner and manager of the Choctaw Ice Co. and a member of the Choctaw law brokerage company and is a young man of sterling character and excellent ability.

The bride is a charming and accomplished young lady who has a host of friends. She has resided in McAlester all her life and is known by her acquaintances as "A bunch of sunshine."

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson have the best wishes of the News.

LEINBACH-MCKENNON

Chester A. Leinbach and Miss Rose McKennon were united in the holy bonds of matrimony at the bride's home on McKennon heights, Wednesday evening, Rev. S. F. Goddard of the South M. E. church performed the ceremony.

The home was beautifully decorated. About one hundred friends of the young couple were present. The presents were numerous and beautiful.

Immediately after the ceremony an elaborate supper was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Leinbach left Wednesday evening for Cedar Rapids, Ia., where they will make their home.

The groom, Leinbach, of Wheaton, Kas., but has been engaged in business at Cedar Rapids, Ia., for a number of years. He is one of the most progressive young business men of that city.

The bride is one of McAlester's most popular and accomplished young ladies, the daughter of Capt. and Mrs. A. S. McKennon. She will be greatly missed by her large circle of friends. The News wishes Mr. and Mrs. Leinbach many happy years.

MISERABLE CROSSINGS

It seems as though the street commissioner's force could be used to good advantage for a few hours in removing the mud from some of the crossings in the residence portions of the city. In some places the crossings are entirely out of sight and one has no idea where to walk in order to gain a firm footing. These crossings should be raised so that they will not be covered with mud at every rain.

ENGINEER HURT

Engineer Jennings, in charge of the machinery at the Busby hotel, was this morning badly squeezed by the elevator. Jennings was standing under the elevator shaft in the basement and the elevator descended and caught him, squeezing him between the floor of the basement and elevator.

Jennings was badly bruised about the body. Dr. Troy was immediately called and the injured man is resting easy at present.

SOME CAUSES OF DESERTION

A lot of them are bugling forward, I see, with yelpes to that question, 'What's the matter with the army?' and a surprised sergeant at once of the Colorado army recruiting offices. 'The reasons given for desertions are pretty close to the mark, too. But there are some others.'

'Pretty often desertions become epidemic in a military post. Any number of things can start an epidemic of desertions, and nothing can stop it short of switching the whole layout to another post, and even that doesn't always work.'

'I recall the desertion epidemic that broke out in Fort Sheridan a few years ago. Inside of three months only a skeleton of the command was left. The thing was started by an officer or unpopular officers, who fell to quarreling among themselves. One commanding or unjust officer to a post can cause more desertions than bad rations or cruelly fatiguing or practice march duty. Once I knew a little rut of a shaveland joint out from West Point, cause 28 men from the cavalry troop to jump the outfit within two months after he'd joined down in Arizona.'

'The death of a well liked officer or even of a very popular enlisted man will often start an epidemic of desertions. One of a little two-battery detachment in the far-northwest where I was stationed there died a first lieutenant who was immensely popular with the enlisted men, and that in spite of the fact that the drink had got him.'

'The desertions began the next day. The next was not only intense, it seemed almost unaccountable without him. 'Little unscheduled things will start desertions. The reappearance of a post of a former member of the outfit tugged out in joyous mutiny and showing other evidences of prosperity always has the effect of getting the gang moving again.'

'Once I belonged to an outfit that was stationed at the Presidio of San Francisco. One of our men caught on a faro-bank dealer of a big San Francisco gambling house at the end of his second night had an interest in the bank himself, and he got the money fast.'

'Well, all diked out in expensive clothes and wearing the spurs and diamonds he had been carrying to the Presidio behind his back, and he had a few months of that that commanding officer of the Presidio had to request that ex-swagger as a special favor to him to cease his visits at the post. A large number of desertions were easily traced to this visit.'

'The gang would look that ex-mat's over and become ambitious all of a sudden. If he had made such a fine thing of it in civil life why couldn't they do the same, or make some kind of a stab at it anyhow? So they hopped out of the Presidio gate and to come back any other way because they had seen all of these signs of prosperity on a man who had once bunched under the same roof with them.'

'Rumors about the transferring of outfits, too, is another cause, and in the aggregate a big contributing cause to the desertion business. Men who enlist in a certain part of the country for service in that section don't like to make a long shift to another part with a different climate. More desertions result from the shifting about of regiments than ever appear in the figures.

'Squer, too, the distance some soldiers will go when they get mixed up with women. The most aggravated case of that kind I ever saw was when I was in the Philippines the first time. With my outfit was a snappy, hustling youngster from Tennessee, a boy not much past his majority, who got the corporal's chevrons very soon after hitting the islands for a nerve work in campaigning. The kid had all the makings of a fine soldier, and as he was well educated, a commission he was just too high for him to look for if he had been of that mind and had kept out of trouble.'

'But he got all wrapped up with a Filipino girl, the daughter of a Filipino president down Mindanao way, and when we were ordered to Manila and when we the transport for the United States he couldn't see the thing of taking a look at Alcatraz. Well, if you'd ever seen it you'd wonder how a little boy from Tennessee boy with a head, even if he didn't have any sense—could let a skippy, mop-haired, pigeon-toed, rice-powdered Filipino girl lead him at Alcatraz for a dose like that, even if her eyes were blue.'

A COLD BLOODED MURDER

BUNCH OF 37 BROUGHT HERE

Fate Laxton, a Miner, is Brutally Slain By a Negro Fiend at the Little Town of Buck.

Fate Laxton a miner living at Buck was murdered in cold blood last evening at 7:30 by a negro. The murderer was one of the most brutal ever committed in this vicinity. It seems as though Laxton and the negro had been drinking and were walking up the road together quarreling. The dispute became warmer and warmer and finally the men came to blows. The negro drew his gun and shot Laxton. The miner staggered a short distance to his home and fell into the arms of his wife who was attracted to the gate by the shot.

having mortally wounded Laxton rushed up to the weeping woman, who was holding her husband in her arms and frantically trying to stop the blood flowing from the ghastly wound, and setting the unconscious man turned him over and shot him again through the eye. The negro then made his escape into the underbrush and is still at large. The murdered man had a reputation as a quiet hard working citizen. He leaves a wife and one child. Mrs. Laxton is completely prostrated, having been compelled to witness the killing of her husband. The negro is known and if caught he will probably see a jail cell. Prisoners Transferred to Federal Jail.

Last night 37 prisoners who had been confined in the Atoka jail were brought to this city and lodged in the United States jail by Deputy Marshal Miller. There were among the lot some of the most desperate men ever brought to this city. There were 14 rape and murder cases in the lot, 10 for grand larceny, 12 for robbery, 2 for mortgage property, five for assault to kill and only one for disposal of liquor. The others were held for minor offenses. One is a woman with a young child. By removing the prisoners to this city the government will be saved at least $4,500 a year. It has cost Uncle Sam this much more to keep the prisoners at Atoka for a year than it would to keep them at the federal jail in this city. Deputy Miller has recommended the change for a long time and finally succeeded in securing the transfer.

PRISONER IS TRANSFERRED

Judge Campbell Hands U. S. Prisoners Over to Custody of the Oklahoma Courts.

Judge Campbell of the eastern district United States court, this morning, sitting in chambers in case United States vs. Robert Thompson, ordered the transfer of the prisoner from the custody of the United States marshal to the district court at Pittsburg court.

This order affects several hundred prisoners who are now in federal jails awaiting transfer to state authorities. A precedent has been set for action in transferring prisoners and the result of the hearing was this morning awaited by many attorneys with great interest.

United States Attorney Gregg and Judge Stuart spent some time discussing the correct course to pursue in turning over the prisoner, whether he should be turned over to the court or to the sheriff. It was finally decided that the court was the proper person to receive the prisoner. The court can then issue an order for the transfer of the prisoner to the sheriff.

Stuart & Gordon, attorneys for Thompson, appeared before Judge Cole last week and filed application for writ of habeas corpus. Judge Cole declined the writ, saying he had no jurisdiction. The case then went to Judge Campbell. Stuart & Gordon will now appear before Judge Cole and ask for bail for Thompson. Attorney Utterbeck of Durant representing four prisoners charged with lynching a negro about a year ago, was an interested listener at the proceedings this morning. Next week Mr. Utterbeck will represent his four clients in a similar case before Judge Campbell.
